

Newly Hired Adele Watson is Taking ICN Canada New Places!

Inkcups Now has hired a new office manager and customer service representative for their Canadian office. Adele Watson joined the Inkcups Now team in January of 2009. A little over a year later, ICN Canada has grown in terms of customer base and facility size in order to truly serve the Canadian market with the greatest possible service. Pad printing in Canada has expanded over the years becoming more popular, ICN Canada is one of the premier suppliers of pad print machinery and equipment.

Adele is taking ICN Canada into new directions. As the new office manager and customer service representative, she also brings over 16 years of knowledge and expertise to the company. Prior to joining ICN Canada, Adele was in the graphic design/ specialty printing industry working primarily with digital output and graphic cards.

Adele stated, "My expectations are to help expand the business in the Canadian market and keep improving upon our customer service." Adele also hopes to increase awareness of ICN Canada to more businesses within the industry. Adele's contribution to the company thus far has proven how much of an asset she is, building upon the solid team of knowledgeable members with years of experience.
